Many St. Louisans Are Postponing Their Departure for the Resorts Until Later in the Summer---The German Lieutenant's Criticism of American Girls---Weddings---Personal Mention---At Jefferson City.

While the exodus from town among so- is expected that many will be attracted by the presence of the Admiral. clety people was more or less noticelast week, yet it is surprising how many persons who ordinarily depart early in June for seashore and mountains have this summer determined to stay at home. It may be that some of these will delay until late in the season, as the present and continuing delightfully cool weather augurs a protracted summer and presumably a hot period late in August and September. However, with the promise of more of the gardens opening this week and the usual interest in golf and the various country clubs, these stay-at-homes may expect to find relief from the ennul that has oppressed everybody since the strike began.

A certain titled German officer-Lieuten ant Schnitzer by name-arrived in St. Louis last week bringing letters of introduction to many of the town's best-known people. He was much entertained by Mrs. J. L. D. Morrison, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Chouteau, Captain Corkery and various other persons, and by reason of his agreeable manners and undeniable culture made a very pleasing impression on his St. Louis hosts. In turn he expressed himself as hugely delighted with the hospitality that was extended to him. and was particularly attracted by those young women whom he was fortunate

AT THE RESORTS.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Jamestown, R. I., June 22.—For the last ten years a steady increase in the popularity of Conanicut Island as a summer resort has been noted, so that to-day the pretty village of Jamestown is marching forward with bold and certain strides to take its place as a not unworthy rival to its sister city. Newport, the queen of American watering places. This increase in popularity is in no sense a mushroom growth, but has been brought about by natural stages. Not very many years ago Conanicut Island was practically an unknown land and the natural beauties of the place have only lately been discovered and recognized. Foremost amongst the ploneer settlers here are found the names of many of the leading people of St. Louis. These families have been coming to Jamestown regularly for the last eight or ten years; and the majority of them have now built summer residences on the island, which they occupy annually. Each season sees some addition to the list of St. Louis names on the Jamestown tax books, and the cry is "still they come."

The residence on the Shoreby Hill plat recently completed for ex-Governor David R. Francis of St. Louis is an artistic piece of architecture and gives evidence of the growing popularity of this park, of which Mr. James Taussig and Mr. Ephron Catlin are the chief promoters.

Slowly but surely the young people are returning with pieasant anticipations to the scenes from which they departed so rejuctantly last September. The hotels are all open, and so is the Shoreby Hill Club, which will be again presided over by Leon Desplanel of Dayton, Fia. Some of those who have already arrived on the "hill" are the families of James Taussig and Ephron Catlin, Henry L. Potter and John David David, Edward Mallinckrodt, Charles A. Farls, Doctor J. B. Johnson and Edward F. Wickham. The Taussig family has recently been thrown into mourning by reason of the death of Mrs. John Abeles, who was the clost daughter of James Taussig. Mrs. Abeles resided in St. Louis and was a well-known visitor at Jamestown in past summer seasons.

Mrs. G. Lacey Crawford of St. Louis has taken possession of the Gurteen cottage, which she has leased for the summer.

E. Howard Benoist has rented the Kindleberger cottage on the Shore road for the summer months. Mr. and Mrs. Benoist and their family have spent several seasons at the Hotel "Bay Voyage." This hotel takes its name from the fact that it was rafted across the bay some fifteen years ago, being formerly a large country house in the town of Middleton.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Paramore and their family are established for the warm season at the Commander Logan cottage on the east shore front.

Clarkson Potter, who was recently here for a few days looking after his father's property, has returned to Yale University, but will pass July and August on the island. Mr. Potter's raceabout Peggy has been put into commission. The Peggy is 11 feet on the water line and 31 feet on deck.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Balley have just arrived at their handsome colonial cottage on the hill.

Miss Elise Lackland has engaged rooms at the Gardner House, where she will arrive early in July to remain all scenarios.

Miss Elise Lackland has engaged rooms at the Gardner House, where she will arrive early in July to remain all summer. The street railroad strike in St. Louis has delayed the arrival of a number of business men from that city who come here for the summer, and among the number are Charles A. Farls and John F. Carton.

Doctor J. B. Johnson's launch Lorley has just been put into commission.

The Jamestown Club opened for the season on June is.

Proprietor Gibson of the Thorndike Hotel has received a letter from Admiral Dewey regarding rooms for a part of the season. Already plans are under way for a series of entertainments at the hotels, and the naval officers will find themselves in great demand for the proposed social functions. Jamestown is always the headquarters in the East for naval men during the summer, and it Mackinac Island, Mich., June 22.—The "Fairy Isle" is rapidiy preparing for the comfort of her summer visitors. Nearly all of the cottages are engaged and many are being put in shape for their expected occupants. The promenades of the "Old Fort," which not many months ago were covered with drifting snow, are now alive with sight-seers. The "Old Mission Church," one of the historic relics of the island, is being thoroughly renovated and the interior repainted; but in other respects it is the same as when meetings were held for the Indians by missionaries in 1830. The grounds are in fine shape and all indications point to the best year this watering place has ever enjoyed.

The hotels will all be open this week, with the exception of the Grand, which is being altered and put in better condition. Manager Weaver, who is also owner of the Planters Hotel, St. Louis, expects to open it July 1. The summer home and grounds of Milton Tootie is being put in readiness for Mr. Tootie and his family, who are expected to arrive soon from St. Joseph.

How a Chinese Pirate Created a New Race of People.

When Li Ma Hung, the noted Chinese pirate of the Sixteenth Century, heard that the city of Cavite, near Manila, was built of solid gold, his cupidity was excited to such a degree that he brought a fleet of junks and an army of Celestials and made a desperate effort to capture the place. He did not succeed, but his expedition resulted in the creation of a new and peculiar race of people, unlike any other in the world, and their descendants still reside in the mountains of the Island of Luzon.

The city of Cavite is not built of solid gold, but there is gold in the sands of many of the rivers of the Philippine Islands, and railroad ties are made of ma-hogany. The islands are richer in natural productions than any other portion of the earth's surface, and whether they are to remain permanently as American territory or not, certainly every American citizen ought to be posted about them; and this information can be obtained only in
